

'Taming of the Shrew' Will Run Extra Night

By MARGOT MILLER

Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" will run for one additional night, Dr. Hugh W. Gillis, head of the Speech and Drama department announced yesterday. The play opens Thursday, Feb. 2 and runs through Feb. 8, except for Sunday, Feb. 5.

Tickets will go on sale Thursday in the Speech office. Student admission is 60 cents; general admission, 90 cents. Dr. Gillis urges students to obtain tickets early to be assured of getting good seats. Miss Elizabeth Loeffler, drama staff director, is directing the 13 scenes of the third production of the 1949-50 drama season presented by the Speech and Drama department.

In the play, Christopher Sly, portrayed by Ivan Van Perre, is discovered in a drunken sleep by a lord, who persuades him that he is a nobleman, and for his amusement "Taming of the Shrew" is presented.

The play within a play is the story of two daughters of a rich gentleman, Katherina, the elder, played by Shirley Wilber, is known for her shrewish disposition, while Bianca, the younger, played by Pat Brizee, is celebrated for her gentleness.

Bianca has many suitors but cannot marry before Katherina. Lucentio, one of Bianca's suitors, played by Jim Jensen, disguises himself and becomes her suitor.

In the meantime, a gentleman from Verona named Petruchio, played by Bill Furnell, comes on the scene, determined to marry Katherina.

So begins the roughest, most hilarious courtship in the history of dramatic literature, and one of Shakespeare's more humorous plays.

J. Wendell Johnson is designing the setting. Berneice Prisk, with the assistance of Shez Hachl, is preparing more than 35 original costumes for the cast.

Technical directors Jim Lioi and Doug Morrison are supervising the construction and staging of the production. Len Weiss is stage manager.

Court Clarifies Case Handling

The Student Court yesterday afternoon took initial action on clarifying and simplifying court procedure and changed their meeting time to 4:30 on Mondays.

Present court procedure and rules, which were adopted in 1943, are couched in legal, formal language and the court is taking steps to put it in everyday language for future clearness.

The court yesterday amended Section II which deals with persons qualified to bring action before the body. The justices ruled that they, as a body, cannot initiate action. Further, they declared that any justice must disqualify himself to act as a defense attorney; or in a case, if he is a member of an organization on trial, a blood relative of one of the principals, has a preformed conviction, or if there is evidence of an existing friendship between a justice and one of the principals.

Al Grass, chief justice, stated that yesterday's definition, and the ones to follow on court procedure, are only tentative and will not be written as final and binding until a later date. Next week the court will act on Section III.

File Drops Early!

Students are urged to file their drop cards in the Registrar's office early this week to avoid the expected rush on Friday afternoon, Miss Viola Palmer, registrar, urged yesterday.

A $1 fee is required if students drop courses after the deadline by petitioning, she said.

SJSC Alums Meet In Athens Often, Letter Discloses

San Jose State college may have an alumni chapter formed in Greece soon, it was learned through a letter, received recently by the Journalism department.

According to word received from Paul Hurmuses, a correspondent for the Associated Press in Greece, four Spartans have been getting together regularly, there.

Lt. Col. Frank O'Conner, '40, from San Francisco, who majored in business and now is in the administrative end of the United States Air Force's group in Greece, is one of the four San Jose State's.

Other members in the proposed alumni group are Eleanor Stamper, '41, from Gustine, Calif., also a business ad major, who is helping to direct Uncle Sam's Greek recovery program, and Lt. Kieth Robinson, '42, who attended State for three years and majored in Commerce as well as being a Spartan Knight. Robinson is with a USAF group there.

The group has been receiving the San Jose State college alumni bulletin. "How much is the subscription in drachmai?" Hurmuses asked.

Through the ROME DAILY AMERICAN, Hurmuses said he discovered that San Jose State college won its second Raisin Bowl game.

Boyd Johnson Directs Revelries Music

Original Lyrics to Feature '50 Revelries Production

By FRED BAUMBERGER

"The music of the 1950 Revelries production will be reminiscent of the roarin' '20s and will be in keeping with the theme of the show, 'Low Button Shoes,' " according to Boyd Johnson, Revelries music director. "The overture before curtain time," he said, "will feature actual selections from the period following World War I to set the mood for the show, but after the curtain rises, the music will consist entirely of original compositions by Spartan students."

Johnson, who has done considerable work on past Revelries performances, will direct a 19-piece orchestra for the show and will arrange all of the orchestrations used. The talents of several student songwriters and lyricists are employed in the work of composing original melodies, some of which are still in the formative stages.

"I plan to orchestrate the Revelries tunes after the fashion of a conventional Broadway musical," Johnson said, explaining, "there will be dance and vocal chorus numbers as well as vocal solos."

Johnson is a native of Monterey. He is a third-year student in the San Jose State college Music department. Last summer he studied with Darius Milhaud, the eminent French modernist composer who is now teaching at Mills college in Oakland.

SJS Hoopsters Meet Stewart Five Tonite

By MANNIE ALVES

San Jose State college's basketballers will try a repeat performance of last year's game when they meet the Stewart Chevrolet team tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Spartan gym.

Practically the same Spartan team last year took the Stewarts to task in a fast scoring game, 57-33. Now resting in the cellar of the CCAA league standings, the Staters will be trying for their seventh win of the season.

Hank Luisetti's cagers are as fine an aggregation of court-wise cavorters as one could put together. Starting late again this season as they did the last, the Chevys are now turning the corner into mid-season form. The San Franciscans are now on a five-game win streak which they hope to protect by flooring an all-star combination of high scoring hoopsters. Their latest victory was over a poor COP team that was outscored and outplayed by a 74-32 count.

The Chevy's record of nine wins—six losses includes victories over some of the toughest AAU competition on the coast. This year the Luisetti men have joined the Western Amateur Basketball league which includes the Oakland Blue 'n Golds and the Fibber McGee and Mollys, star-studded teams that are always potential high scoring teams.

San Jose's cagers are still looking for the evening when they can put two halves of a game together and wind up with a balanced scoring victory.

Former Stanford ace Hank Luisetti has no cause for loneliness since most of the players are former Stanford and California men. The addition of Oregon Staters Cliff Crandall and Norm Carey to round out the group seems to have given Luisetti the scoring threat that he has sought for the last two seasons.

Pro Footballers Get Draft Rights On Four Spartans

The new National-American Football league sought new talent at their recent player draft and in so doing reached to San Jose State college for a quartet of gridmen.

Harry Russell, shifty-scatback and leading yard maker for last season's Spartans, was named by the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Billy Wilson, all-around end in this day of the two platoons, will be subject to call by the '49ers if he decides to play pro-ball.

Junior Morgan, magnet-fingered end who led in the pass receiving bracket, was subject to call by the Los Angeles Rams.

Wilson is the only one of the group who has college eligibility remaining. The pros can't name an undergraduate with time left to play in college ball. Wilson is an exception because his class will have graduated before another pigskin campaign comes around.

He started school in 1946, but dropped out for a year. So he's a junior instead of a senior.

The big end plans to stick around and get his diploma, so San Jose State college doesn't have to worry about losing a sensational end prematurely.

"I'd like to play for the '49ers," Wilson said, "but I'm going to finish up here before I try."

Morgan isn't positive as yet. "I'd like to go into coaching," the all-around athlete said, "I'm not sure, but I doubt whether I'll play pro ball."

Russell and Dow were understood to favor a fling in the professional ranks.

Black Belt Group Chooses SJS Judo Coach as Prexy

Yoshima "Yosh" Uchida, San Jose State college graduate and currently coach of the Spartan Judo team, was elected president of the Northern California Black Belt association at a meeting of that group in San Francisco last night, Dean Patrick, team publicity director, announced yesterday.

Uchida, a major in biological sciences while at State, is the holder of the fourth degree black belt, and in view of his election last night, is destined to advance in Judo standings.

"As president of the Northern California Black Belt association," Uchida said, "I will do my best to try and build up an interest in Judo in this state. I believe that the only way to build up interest is to have more tournaments and meets."

Frosh Cagers Seek Victory Over Campbell

San Jose State college's freshman cagers will go after their 10th win when they meet Campbell high school at 6:30 o'clock tonight as a preliminary to the varsity game.

The Campbell team has met with average success in its prep adventures this season. This is not a league game for the members of the Santa Clara Valley Athletic league, but they would like to beat a college frosh team. Campbell is coached by Bert Robinson, former State athlete. It's no secret that Robinson would like to beat the proteges of his teachers.

Coach Tom Cureton believes he has scoring punch with Stan Wacholz and Wendell Kibbe at forwards, Paul Foerster at center and Bill Brunberg and Lee Jensen at guards.

Just in case, he has trouble-shooter Ron Hindley, his jack-of-all-positions ready as well as Bill Abbott, reliable guard.

More Teachers Needed

Labor Bureau Bulletin Analyzes Job Outlook

Four times the number of grade school teachers as were trained last year will have to be trained to meet the peak in grade school enrollment in 1953-54, according to a bulletin released Sunday by the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The 90-page booklet "Employment Outlook for Elementary and Secondary School Teachers" is the first to analyze the long-run need for teachers on a state-by-state basis, and was prepared by the Bureau of Labor Statistics in cooperation with the Veterans' Administration.

Also aiding in the preparation of the bulletin were state departments of education, teachers' associations, the U. S. Office of Education, and other groups and individuals in the educational field.

Fewer Teachers Training

According to the report, teacher-training institutions are turning out far fewer teachers than are needed. For example, it reveals, 25,000 teachers were trained in 1949, yet the need was for 75,000.

The millions of "war babies," many of them already of grammar school age, and millions more "post-war" babies who soon will be starting school, have made the need for teachers much more acute.

Peak enrollment, the report says, is expected in the grades one to eight in 1957 in most states. However, it continues, the greatest number of teachers will have to be hired in 1953 when the most rapid rise in enrollments is anticipated.

The bulletin predicts a decrease in the number of high school teachers needed until 1952. A slowly increasing need is then expected until the peak numbers of students move from the lower grades into high school.

Ratio Is 4 to 1

In 1949, the report states, four high school teachers were trained for every one who was needed.

In addition to reporting on the employment outlook, the bulletin gives information on certification requirements and earnings in each state.

The bulletin was originally prepared for advice and guidance to disabled veterans in the vocational rehabilitation and education programs.

A brief summary of the report, and a wall chart illustrating the trends of teacher supply and needs may be obtained free of charge, from the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor, Washington 25, D. C.

Former Student Visits SJ Campus

Dr. Arthur Nelson, former student who is biology and conservation professor at San Francisco State college, visited the Natural Science department of San Jose State college Friday, Dr. Carl Duncan said yesterday.

"He had a few days off from SFSC because of finals and came down to see us," Dr. Duncan explained.

According to Dr. Benjamin Naylor, assistant professor of chemistry, Dr. Nelson received his Ph.D. at Cornell university last June after receiving his bachelor of science degree in 1942 at the University of California, Berkeley campus. Dr. Naylor explained that Dr. Nelson did undergraduate work at San Jose State college and then did part time teaching in biology and chemistry here in the Natural Science department in 1946.

"During the war he was on an island as an Army Air Corps meteorologist," Dr. Naylor said. He rose to the rank of captain.

A native of San Jose, Dr. Nelson was graduated from San Jose high school. While at San Jose State college he was a member of Tau Delta Phi, men's honor scholastic group, Dr. Naylor said.

'Y' Discusses Discrimination

By FRANCIS ERROTA

Speeches, dancing, singing, and general all around fun highlighted a meeting of the Student "Y" in the Student Union, Thursday night.

The meeting opened with a speech by Miss Marie Herold, Student "Y" president, on the purpose and program of the student "Y".

Different phases of the Asilomar conference were discussed by three student representatives. Miss Barbara Amori spoke about "Racial Equality", presenting problems confronted in the Los Angeles area as examples.

Miss Leona Crouch's speech entitled "Achieving Personal Maturity", tied in with Miss Amori's talk. Miss Crouch emphasized that a great deal of maturity is needed to solve these racial problems.

Miss Jean Justice gave the third speech and spoke on "The 'Y' as a Channel of Effectiveness". She emphasized that three years passed before she was introduced into the "Y" at the University of California.

Trip Can Take Four More

There are only four more registration vacancies in the West Coast Nature school trip to Death valley Mar. 26-Apr. 1, Dr. Gertrude Cavins, registrar for the trip, said yesterday.

"When these places are filled," Dr. Cavins explained, "registration will be closed. We probably will continue taking names for two or three more days."

The trip will be made during the San Jose State college spring recess, according to Dr. Robert Rhodes, adviser to the San Jose State college group. Two units of upper division transferable credit is given for the one week excursion to the sand and sun. Any San Jose State college student is qualified to register for the trip, he said.

A fee of $10 is required at time of registering.

'Kidnapped' Rally Chairman Returns to Duty Uninjured

By JEANNE THOMAS

Ed Mosher, newly-elected rally committee head and pledge trainer for his fraternity, was given the old "underworld" treatment Tuesday night, when he was "taken for a ride" by a group of self-styled Mickey Cohens.

Kidnapped by a group of sadistic neophytes, Mosher was reported missing for 26 hours by his brothers. Word of the "snatch" reached the fraternity house when Bill Monahan escaped the pledges through a window and returned to send out a searching party for the missing pledge trainer.

"It wasn't too harrowing," Mosher reported. "They took me to Berkeley, then up to the Santa Cruz mountains, behind Alma, and back to San Jose. I spent the night in a warehouse."

Back in harness after the adventure, Mosher reports there will be a regular meeting of the Rally committee Wednesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the Student Union.
